

Welcome to the 70th War Eagle Fair™

The War Eagle Fair began in 1954 and started as a way for crafters from across the Ozarks region to display their works. It continues today over 60 years later with the same idea. With more than 250 booths of all handcrafted products displayed by their creators, the War Eagle Fair takes place along the banks of the War Eagle Creek. A beautiful Fall setting of changing leaves makes the perfect weekend getaway experience for you and your family. The War Eagle Fair is brought to you by the family and friends of our founder, Blanche Elliott. The current directors strive to create and continue interest in the traditions of arts and crafts.

Over the years, as crowds grew, our neighbors joined in on the fun. The Sharp Family started allowing cars to park in their field in the 1970s and eventually crafters to set up shop as well. In 2012, the family sold Blanche's former home to the Covey Family. The Covey's host a small event in their field featuring hand crafted items mostly created by their family.

The War Eagle Mill, which is not associated with the War Eagle Fair, was rebuilt as it stands today in 1973. The first Mill was built by Sylvanus Blackburn and family in 1832. That Mill was washed away in a flood in 1848. It was rebuilt shortly after and operated as a saw and grist mill until it was taken over by the Union Army in 1862. As the Confederate Army moved into the area during the Battle of Pea Ridge, they took over the Mill using it for just two days before burning it to the ground to prevent the Union Army from using it again. After the war was over, JAC Blackburn, Sylvanus' son, reconstructed the Mill in 1873. That Mill was then destroyed by another fire in 1924. In 1972, Jewel Medlin purchased the property and attended the 19th annual War Eagle Fair. Mr. Medlin made the observation that if he could sell a two-pound bag of yellow corn meal to every person that came to the Fair that business could be profitable. Over the years as their business grew, they also started allowing craft and food vendors to display their creations.

Grandma Blanche would be so pleased with how the Fair has grown over the years and influenced others to cultivate space for true artists and crafters to display their wares. We can only hope others give credit where credit is due and remember why we are all here today. Please enjoy this beautiful valley and the history surrounding our event. Come back and visit again for our 71st Year, October 16-19, 2025.

The 2024 War Eagle Fair features artists and crafters from 24 different states. Steve Mass in One is celebrating his 37th year exhibiting at the War Eagle Fair. Be sure to stop by!

A FREE Package Check Stand is provided to our customers and located directly in front of Three.

We will begin accepting applications for the 2025 event November 1st. Please visit our website at wareaglefair.com to access the screening application. We encourage you to apply early.

A Supercell to Remember

In the early morning hours of May 26, 2024, a large supercell passed through Northern Arkansas producing as many as fifteen tornados. The damage was widespread and lives were lost. Exempt from damaging weather for decades, the War Eagle Community did not escape unscathed this time around. Homes and buildings were leveled. Trees were uprooted. The landscape forever changed.

We are so excited to move from our Tent Era to our Barn Era. We ask for your patience during our recovery and invite you to enjoy our growth. Thank you for joining in on our recovery story.
